

Archived version from NCDOCKS Institutional Repository <http://libres.uncg.edu/ir/asu/>

Creative Justice: The Podcast ("For The Love Of Books")

By: Cara Hagan, Jewel Davis, and Members of the Appalachian State University
Libraries Staff and Faculty

Abstract

Podcast: On this episode, members of the Appalachian State University libraries staff and faculty talk about the power of the written word and some of their favorite books that center marginalized voices and art as social justice. This episode was recorded on October 12th, 2020.

Hagan, C., Davis, J., et al. (2020). "For the Love of Books," Creative Justice: The Podcast. October 12, 2020. Episode of record available at: <https://www.buzzsprout.com/1458406/6176209>

Creative Justice: The Podcast

For the Love of Books!

November 01, 2020 Cara Hagan Season 1 Episode 1

Creative Justice: The Podcast

For the Love of Books!

00:00 | 25:51

Rewind Speed Forward

Info Share

Chapters

Creative Justice: The Podcast

For the Love of Books!

Nov 01, 2020 Season 1 Episode 1

Cara Hagan

On this episode, members of the Appalachian State University libraries staff and faculty talk about the power of the written word and some of their favorite books that center marginalized voices and art as social justice. This episode was recorded on October 12th, 2020.

Share Episode

Share on Facebook Share on Twitter Share on LinkedIn Download

Subscribe

RSS Feed

RSS Feed

Buzzsprout

Listen on

RSS Feed

Share Episode

Share on Facebook Share on Twitter Share on LinkedIn

Show Notes

On this episode, members of the Appalachian State University libraries staff and faculty talk about the power of the written word and some of their favorite books that center marginalized voices and art as social justice. This episode was recorded on October 12th, 2020.

All content © 2021 Creative Justice: The Podcast.