Preface

A goal of the Office of Research, Evaluation, and Planning (REP) at North Carolina Central University (NCCU) is to provide useful information and knowledge to the University community, the citizens of the State of North Carolina, and the nation on the activities and achievements of the University.

The NCCU Fact Book, FACTS 1998-1999 is prepared and produced by REP in an effort to provide useful information and knowledge to the public. As always, this year's FACTS provides a historical perspective in which to review the University's activities and development, and will serve as a foundation for planning and decision making.

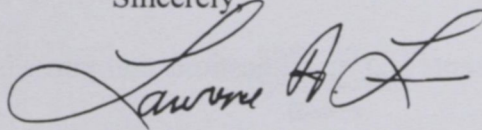

To reach more readers, we have provided an electronic version of this publication. Please visit the office WEBPAGE @ (www.nccu.edu/offices/rep/wel.htm) for this and other informational pieces. We strongly recommend use be made of this version as we have decreased the number of hardcopies produced to reduce the costs associated with producing this publication.

REP will continue to refine and improve this publication each year. We need your input and welcome your comments and/or suggestions for improving the NCCU FACTS. Those who desire to see improvements in the publication should complete the next page and FAX a copy to REP at 530-7973.

Special acknowledgments are given to the entire office staff for the successful completion of this year's FACTS, especially Sandra Davis, Helen Faucette, Sylvia Seward, and Margaret Harrison who committed a very significant effort in the development of this important resource. We hope you find FACTS 1998-1999 useful.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Facts About the University

STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

History and Background

North Carolina Central University, a state-supported liberal arts institution, was chartered in 1909 as a private institution and opened to students on July 10, 1910. It was founded by Dr. James E. Shepard. To this end, the training of all students has been entrusted to the most capable teachers available.

The institution's early years were characterized by a wealth of enthusiasm and high endeavor, but not of money. Private donations and student fees constituted the total financial support of the school, and the heavy burden of collecting funds rested on the President.

In 1915, the school was sold and reorganized, then becoming the National Training School. During this period of its history, Mrs. Russell Sage of New York was a generous benefactor of the school.

In 1923, the General Assembly of North Carolina appropriated funds for the purchase and maintenance of the school; thus, in that year it became a publicly-supported institution and was renamed Durham State Normal School. Two years later, the General Assembly converted it into the North Carolina College for Negroes, dedicating it to the offering of liberal arts education and the preparation of teachers and principals of secondary schools.

At its 1927 session, the General Assembly began a program of expansion of the college plant to conform to the needs of an enlarged academic program. The interest of the honorable Angus W. McLean, then Governor of North Carolina, and his belief in the institution aided greatly in the promotion of this program. State appropriations were supplemented by a generous gift from B. N. Duke and by contributions from citizens of Durham in 1929. The 1930's afforded federal grants and State appropriations for a new program of physical expansion and improvement of educational facilities; this program continued until the beginning of World War II.

The College was accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools as an "A" class institution in 1937 and was admitted to membership in this association in 1957.

The General Assembly of 1939 authorized the establishment of graduate work in liberal arts and the professions. Pursuant thereto, graduate courses in the Arts and Sciences were first offered in that same year; the School of Law began operation in 1940, and the School of Library Science was established in 1941.

In 1947, the General Assembly changed the name of the institution to North Carolina College at Durham.

On October 6, 1947, Dr. Shepard, the founder and President of the college, died. The Board of Trustees appointed an interim committee consisting of Dr. Albert E. Manley, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences; Miss Ruth G. Rush, Dean of Women; and Dr. Albert L. Turner, Dean of the School of Law, to administer the affairs of the institution until the election of the second president.

On January 20, 1948, Dr. Alfonso Elder was elected President of the institution. At the time of his election, Dr. Elder was serving as head of the Graduate Department of Education and had formerly been Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Elder retired September 1, 1963.

Dr. Samuel P. Massie was elected as the third President of the college on August 9, 1963. Dr. Massie came to the institution from Washington, D.C., where he was Associate Program Director for Undergraduate Science Education of The National Science Foundation and Professor and Chairman of the Department of Pharmaceutical Chemistry at Howard University. He resigned on February 1, 1966.

The Board of Trustees appointed an interim committee consisting of Mr. William Jones, Business Manager; Dr. Helen G. Edmonds, Graduate Dean; and Dr. William H. Brown, Professor of Education, to administer the affairs of the institution until the fourth president took office.

On July 20, 1966, Dr. Albert N. Whiting was named the fourth president of the institution. He came to North Carolina College from Baltimore, Maryland, where he had been Dean of the Faculty of Morgan State College. Dr. Whiting served as President and Chancellor from July 1, 1967, until his retirement on June 30, 1983.

In 1969, the General Assembly changed the name of the institution to North Carolina Central University. On July 1, 1972, North Carolina Central University became a constituent institution of The University of North Carolina.

On July 1, 1983, Dr. LeRoy T. Walker became Interim Chancellor of the University. He had served the institution as Chairman of the Department of Physical Education and Recreation, Head Track Coach, and Vice Chancellor for University Relations. At their February 1986 meeting, the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, at the request of the University's Board of Trustees, decreed that Dr. Walker was Chancellor of the University rather than Interim Chancellor and made that action retroactive to the beginning of his term.

Dr. Tyrone R. Richmond, formerly Dean of the School of Business, succeeded Dr. Walker as Chancellor on July 1, 1986. Prior to his arrival at North Carolina Central University, Dr. Richmond was Associate Dean and Professor at the School of Business and Public Administration at Howard University.

Dr. Richmond resigned as Chancellor to return to the classroom and was succeeded on January 1, 1992 by Dr. Donna J. Benson as Interim Chancellor.

On July 31, 1992, Atty. Julius L. Chambers was appointed Chancellor of North Carolina Central University by the Board of Governors. He assumed that office on January 1, 1993. Atty. Chambers was formerly Director-Counsel for the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc.

Mission of the University

North Carolina Central University is a comprehensive university offering programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels. It is the nation's first liberal arts institution founded for African Americans. The University maintains a strong liberal arts tradition and a commitment to academic excellence in a diverse educational and cultural environment. It seeks to encourage intellectual curiosity and to enhance the academic and professional skills of its students and faculty.

The mission of the University is to prepare students academically and professionally and to promote consciousness of social responsibility and dedication to the advancement of the general welfare of the people of North Carolina, the United States, and the world. The University will serve its traditional clientele of African American students; it will also expand its commitment to meet the educational needs of a student body that is diverse in race and other socioeconomic attributes.

Teaching is the primary focus of the University. As a part of that focus, the University encourages its faculty to pursue intellectual development and rewards effective teaching. The University recognizes, however, the mutually reinforcing impact of scholarship and service on effective teaching and learning. North Carolina Central University, therefore, encourages and expects faculty and students to engage in scholarly, creative, and service activities which benefit the global community.

The University has developed Institutional Goals that are consistent with and that emanate from the ideals delineated in the University Mission Statement.

Institutional Goals/Issues

1. To recruit and admit a culturally diverse student body with good potential for academic success and to retain those students to graduation.
2. To enhance academic programs, academic support systems, and cultural opportunities that encourage among students, faculty, and staff strong positive attitudes toward learning and the intellectual discipline to ensure familiarity with research and problem-solving methods, the ability to employ critical thinking skills, the ability to synthesize knowledge from many sources, the sharpening of communication skills, the capacity for self-directed learning, and a commitment to life-long education.
3. To continue to develop academic programs that provide students opportunities to acquire a knowledge of languages, an understanding of the social, the human, and the physical sciences, and of the humanities, the fine and the performing arts.
4. To advance high academic and intellectual standards to ensure increased student success on standardized subject tests and certifying examinations.
5. To foster in students intellectual inquiry and a research discipline that will result in increased numbers of graduates pursuing terminal degrees.
6. To ensure that graduates of University programs have the technical skills and knowledge requisite for applying technology to accomplishing tasks, addressing challenges, and solving problems that will arise in their chosen careers.

7. To provide educational and social environments that foster in students increased understanding of their cultural heritage and of the diversity inherent in the existing social order.
8. To encourage outstanding performance in teaching, scholarship, creativity, and service.
9. To foster new and innovative research activities that are funded through grants and partnerships.
10. To enhance and develop programs that will increase diversity among students, faculty, and staff.
11. To further promote educational, research, training, cultural, and athletic programs and events that respond to the needs of the broadening local and regional University community.
12. To monitor financial operations and personnel administration to ensure fiscal soundness and accountability for resources and services.

Indicators of Success are used to determine the extent to which Institutional Goals have been achieved. A specific Indicator of Success may apply to goals that relate to educational programs, educational support programs, or both. The University's Indicators of Success for reaching the Institutional Goals are incorporated in successive planning and evaluation processes to ensure the achievement of Institutional Goals and to ensure the quality of programs and offerings.
