OpenUNC:

What and why?

<https://openunc.org/>

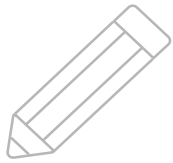

Opening UNC research to the world

<https://openunc.org/>

OpenUNC: what is it?

- ▶ Founded in 2020
- ▶ Project of the UNC University Library Advisory Council (ULAC)
- ▶ Strives to increase access to open research and educational resources that are being created across the UNC System
- ▶ Maintained and promoted by the ULAC Scholarly Communications Working Group (SCWG)

OpenUNC: why?

- ▶ Raise awareness of OA content from the UNC System
- ▶ Collaboration helps reduce effort across the group
- ▶ Open access benefits everyone!

OpenUNC:

What can I find there?

OPEN ACCESS JOURNALS

Open access journals emphasize the rights of authors to retain copyright in their work and to license that work in ways that encourage sharing and reuse.

OPEN REPOSITORIES

Open UNC repositories keep digital scholarly output safe, accessible and discoverable for as long as needed.

OPEN MONOGRAPHS

Open monographs offer increased visibility and impact, speed to publication, and the ability to experiment with ways to present and update content attract authors to open access publishing. Rare and out-of-print publications become accessible to students and readers worldwide, increasing diversity of opinions and perspectives.

OPEN EDUCATION

UNC actively works to reduce the cost of higher education for North Carolina students by providing free, open textbooks, and building sustainable open education programs

OPEN PUBLISHING RESOURCES

UNC Asheville

African Americans in Western North Carolina and Appalachia (Conference Proceedings)

The African Americans in Western North Carolina journal contains the proceedings from the annual conference.

Appalachian Curator

The Appalachian Curator is a newsletter by and about special collections and archives that collect print and digital materials from the mountains. Our intended audience is scholars, students, researchers, archivists, librarians, and anyone interested in the region. Sponsor/Owner: Appalachian Studies Association Special Collections Committee

Dignity

Dignity: An Undergraduate Human Rights Journal endeavors to showcase a broad spectrum of human rights research from across the disciplines in the UNC North Carolina System. Dignity fosters awareness of international and domestic human rights by publishing and promoting undergraduate human rights research from across the disciplines.

Mathematics and Sports

Mathematics and Sports (MAS) aims to be an all-inclusive journal at the interface of mathematics and sports, encompassing all aspects of sports at all levels with the aim to better understand sports and to further the field through submissions that include mathematical, statistical, and computer science analysis of all sports including traditional and outdoor recreation, non-traditional sports, and education through sports.

Moja: Interdisciplinary Journal of Africana Studies

Moja presents an open-access platform for interdisciplinary scholarly dialogues on topics from all disciplines (including African American studies). Moja invites the submission of scholarly, critical, theoretical, or pedagogical manuscripts, including visual arts.

Publicize OA news

OpenUNC: Submit a news story

The OpenUNC website (<https://openunc.org/>) highlights and advances open research practices, open access publication methods, open dissemination of research outputs, and open educational resources for and from the University of North Carolina System. The website was created and is maintained by members of the University Library Advisory Council (ULAC) with the goal of helping open UNC research to the world.

This form is for UNC System Library personnel to submit information and news to be shared and featured on the OpenUNC website. Questions? Contact Anna Craft (arcraft@uncg.edu)
