

Vintage Viands: Promoting the Home Economics Pamphlets Collection since 2015

Callie Coward, Erica Rau, Carolyn Shankle

With contributions by Marcie Burton

The University of North Carolina at Greensboro

Origins of Vintage Viands

- Callie Coward proposes digitizing Home Economics pamphlets in the public domain, including pre-1923 pamphlets, government document publications, and pamphlets not following copyright guidelines.
- Erica Rau joins the Digital Projects team in late 2011 and begins assisting with pamphlet digitization.
- Late 2014, an idea is born: Vintage Viands: A Taste-Testing event featuring recipes from the Martha Blakeney Hodges Special Collections and University Archives Home Economics and Household Collection!
- The idea was to ask library employees to volunteer to make recipes from pamphlets in the collection, and then share them with university students in order to promote both physical and online collection.
- After consulting with library administration and receiving permission to hold the event, the first Vintage Viands is scheduled for February 13, 2015; a test run, if you will.
- Vintage Viands is held again on September 25, 2015, this time with a student-selected 1940s theme.
- The third Vintage Viands is held September 23, 2016, with a 1920s theme.
- Our latest event was held September 22, 2017, with a North Carolina theme.

February 2015: First event

September 2016: 1920s theme

September 2015: 1940s theme

September 2017: North Carolina theme

Publicity

- News and Record
- Springer
- American Libraries
- UNCG
- Our State
- 1808 Magazine

Marketing

- Posters (both physical and virtual)
- Social media
- Post cards
- Worked with our Director of Communications and Marketing, Hollie Stevenson-Parrish

Top 4 ways people heard about the 2017 event:

1. Walking through the library
2. Heard about it from friends
3. Posters/signs
4. Social media

Vintage Viands 2017

Most Delicious Recipe: Waffles

Most Interesting Recipe: Ham Ball

Have you attended Vintage Viands in the past? Yes No

How did you hear about Vintage Viands? Posters around campus

Additional Comments: Blend better...

Vintage Viands 2017

Most Delicious Recipe: Waffles

Most Interesting Recipe: Waffles

Have you attended Vintage Viands in the past? Yes No

How did you hear about Vintage Viands? Signs

Additional Comments: Do it Again!

Vintage Viands 2017

Most Delicious Recipe: Cox Ham Ball

Most Interesting Recipe: Congeeled Asparagus

Have you attended Vintage Viands in the past? Yes No

How did you hear about Vintage Viands? Word of mouth

Additional Comments:

Collection Statistics

- Home Economics Pamphlets: 5782 volumes
- North Carolina Cookbooks: 1000+ volumes
- Cookbooks in other collections: 100+ volumes

Tips

- Have the recipe beside the dish so people can monitor their allergies.
- Make sure to have signs displayed telling them to check recipes before eating anything and specify that they are eating at their own risk.
- Use a Google Form and spreadsheet. This will make your life so much easier.
- Make physical posters! Seriously. Students may be online but posters and signs surpassed social media and it was promoted on several accounts.
- Have fun!

