The Lending Cupboard at UNCG University Libraries: A Pilot Project

Melody Rood, Joshua Olsen, Rachel Olsen, Lois Vinson, Amy Harris Houk

Background

- UNCG has robust study abroad and exchange programs
- (we did not)
- A small group of interested library employees decided to apply for a Bright Ideas grant from the State Library of NC
- We received the grant, did our research (thanks to our colleagues at Clarkson University) and went shopping
- Piloted the Lending Cupboard in Spring 2023 because there were fewer new exchange students and we could get a sense of what the most popular items were

An international student on a tour asked if UNCG had a Lending Cupboard

Student Success

- Exchange students often have to make one-time purchases of household items they cannot take home
- Other financial burdens include lack of transportation to buy necessary household items, limited work opportunities, and high exchange rates • UNCG Libraries used their connection with the International Programs Center (IPC)
- Student Success Librarian worked with the Assistant Director of Study Abroad and Exchanges to brainstorm ideas for the Lending Cupboard • IPC formerly hosted an exchange Pop Up Shop but found it unsustainable due to lack of space, so the Lending Cupboard offered a solution

Future Directions

- The Lending Cupboard has proven to be a significant success: • As of September 2023, 69.5% of 141 items are checked out • We will continue to monitor usage to determine specific demands and circulation trends
- Future plans include developing and conducting formal assessment, as well as exploring expansion opportunities • Visit the link or use the QR code below for more details on the Lending Cupboard project
