Future Directions of the North Carolina Literary Map

Jennifer Motzko & Kathelene McCarty Smith, The University of North Carolina at Greensboro

Additions of a cultural resources page will provide links to North Carolina’s historic sites, museums, literary trails, and tourism websites.

Additions of a literary magazines page will include links to articles, interviews, and essays about North Carolina writers and their works.

Addition of a blog page will provide an interactive forum for individual readers, book clubs, and literary enthusiasts.

Redesign of the homepage will include an interactive county-level map.

Addition of an education page will include K-12 planning guides, interactive activities, and suggested age-appropriate literature.