

Figure 2

Confidence ratings represent how listeners identified the sexual orientation of a speaker upon hearing a vowel in Experiment 2. For each of the seven vowels, there was a significant difference in the rating for the gay and heterosexual speakers. A rating of 7 indicates that the listener identified the speaker as sounding gay and a rating of 1 indicates that the listener identified the speaker as sounding heterosexual. Error bars represent one standard error of measurement.

